Leigh Phillips, Program Manager, Office of the Treasurer of the City of San Francisco

Leigh Phillips is the Program Manager for “Bank on San Francisco”, the first city-wide initiative designed to bring “un-banked” residents into the financial mainstream. She has worked for Treasurer José Cisneros in the San Francisco Office of the Treasurer since December 2004. She previously managed the successful two-year pilot of the City’s “Working Families Credit” program, a local match to the federal EITC.

Prior to working for the City and County of San Francisco, Ms. Phillips worked in development and fundraising at the University of California, San Francisco. She received both her Bachelor of Arts in English Literature and Social Sciences and a Masters of Economic and Social Sciences in Women’s Studies from the University of Manchester, UK.
