Specialized Training to Help Underserved Small Business Owners

Awards will support programs focused on financial health and small business success strategies for veteran and minority entrepreneurs

(SAN ANTONIO, TX) - With the generous support of USAA, The National Association for Latino Community Asset Builders (NALCAB) will provide capacity-building grants of $40,000 each, along with a year's worth of training, to five San Antonio nonprofits that offer financial coaching and/or small business technical assistance for Latino, immigrant, and low-income populations.

As part of USAA's three-year, $50 million commitment to advance economic mobility for underserved communities, NALCAB was selected to help the selected organizations better serve entrepreneurs with curriculum and coaching strategies focused on the intersection between personal financial health and small business success.

"Financial health is the foundation for strong, successful businesses. So, we are thrilled to be able to offer critical training and funding to these outstanding nonprofits that are helping Latino, veteran and other underserved entrepreneurs to grow and thrive," said Marla Bilonick, NALCAB President & CEO. "We appreciate the generous support from USAA that is enabling us to provide the financial tools, training and resources to help these organizations further bolster the success of their small business clients."
